ABOUT

FUSCHINI

It was by the hands of the architects Vasco de Lima Mayer and Sara Oom de Sousa that the Fuschini was built. Founded as a 100% Portuguese furniture brand, it has been gaining increasing recognition for its clean lines, comfort, beauty and unparalleled quality.

To be a reference brand in the Portuguese furniture design industry is not just about making something beautiful, it is about creating what is meaningful.

With the precision of the author's design, the expertise of national suppliers, and the consistency of top-quality materials, Fuschini's designs aim for the same purpose: To make you feel a sense of vacation every time you come back home.

COMFORTING
Furniture

Our designs' peculiar traces make them one of a kind. But regardless of the path they take and where they end up living, all our products were made in the same place for the same end goal: to fill every space with the flow of simplicity and the comfort of tradition. That's what brings them all together. And that's what brings our products closer to you.

it´s comforting

pedro chair

There is no passion like the first one, they say. That's why our very first creation, named after an artist we so admire, shows particularly distinctive features that create a timelessly graceful piece.

designed by Vasco Lima Mayer

josé chair

What does belonging mean? That would take a long conversation... Just sit in this chair, relax, and unravel the comfort of still beauty. Maybe then, you'll know what belonging feels like.

designed by Vasco Lima Mayer

manuel chair

A proof that lightness and stability can stand in the same place. In this straw seat, we pay homage to the centuries-old traditional teniques from the north of Portugal, discarding the superfluous to assume the authentic.

francisco chair

Find comfort in a very peculiar way, The typical rope seat and the ash wood frame bring a sense of familiar warmth, but the arched back is the turning point that creates something never seen (and felt) before. Designing tradition slightly differently makes all the difference.

designed by Gonçalves Vieira Cruz

vasco chair

With its light tones of ash wood and linear design, Vasco's chair goes straight to the point when it comes to connecting form and function and approaching the user in a not-so-obvious way.

augusto chair

Time stands still in the arms of Augusto's swinging chair. Balancing between memories to be kept and stories to be told, each present moment is written with the slow pace of contentment.

pedro stool

Traced in lines that breathe individuality, this stool was made for a single use: For you to sit alone and feel the lightness of being with yourself.

pedro bench

If balance is key, we made this bench for three. Trusting on the strength of four wooden legs and stretching along the straw seat, Pedro's bench accommodates any trio. Of people, clothes, or really anything.

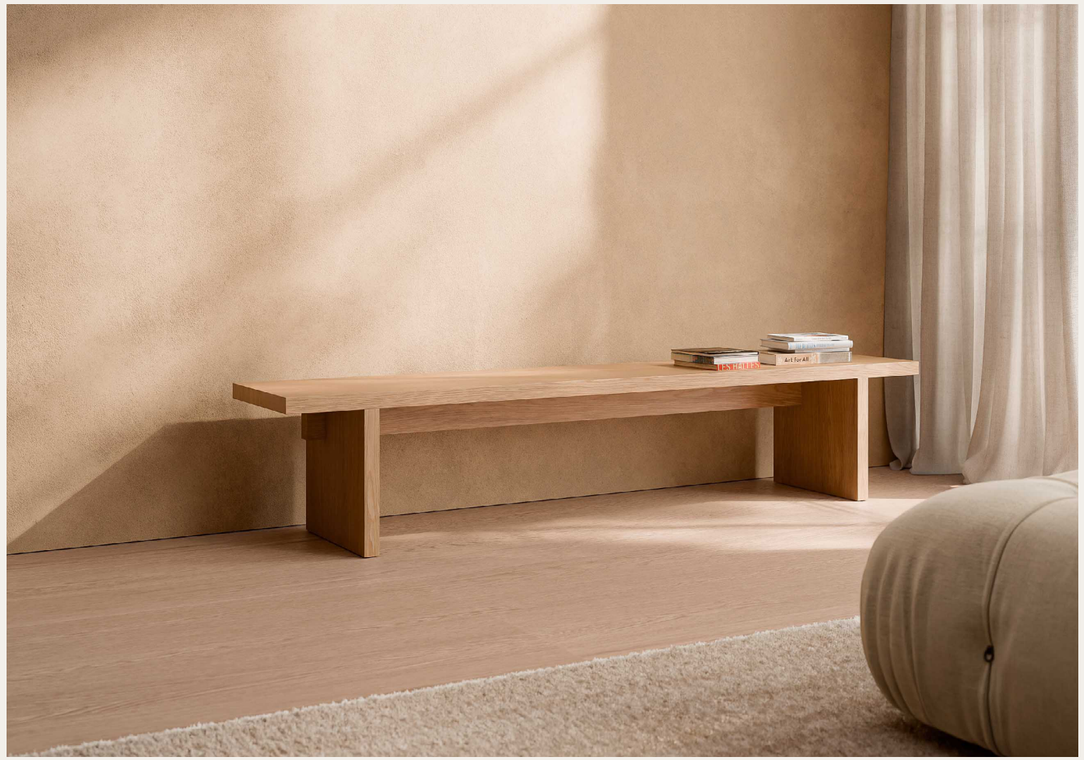
salvador stool

There's nothing as average as a wooden stool. But, after receiving a briefing from Miguel Soeiro (designer and teacher at Lisbon Design School), Vasco Mayer took the homework further and created something not so common. The result was a piece in which a delicately curved seat of molded plywood rests on the firmness of four legs, creating a dialogue between structured lines and unexpected strokes.

designed by Gonçalo Grácio



gonçalo stool

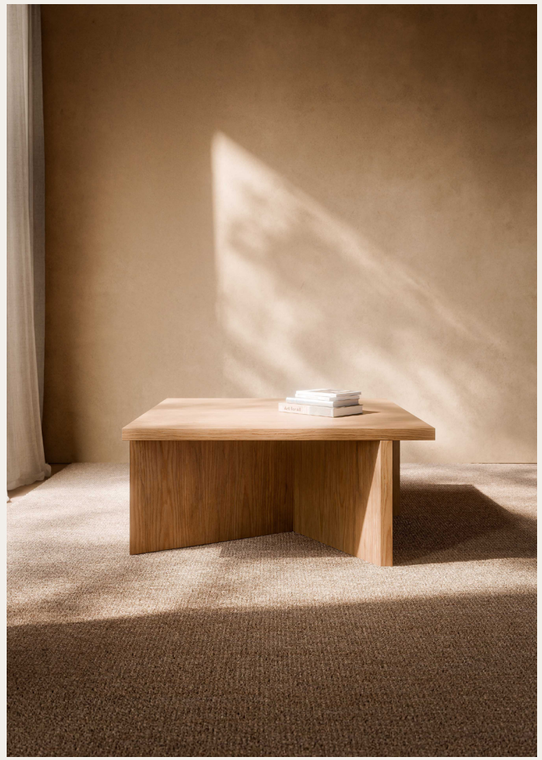
Respecting the robustness of the high-quality material it is made of, the oak bench designed by Gonçalo Grácio managed to express the sophistication of contemporary Portuguese design using nothing but solid simple lines

designed by Vasco Lima Mayer

anselmo sofa

This is what everyone expects to find when they get home: comfort to settle down, space to gather together, and a place to fit in perfectly. With its welcoming dimensions, neutral calm tone, and harmonious shape, Anselmo's sofa offers a safe space to sit around with all of that. And even more.

designed by Manuel Aires Mateus



elia table

Launched at Lisbon Design Week 2024, this signature piece connects versatility and purity in clear lines of solid wood. Designed by the visionary architect Manuel Aires Mateus, it could only be a reflection of his thoughtful, minimalist, and poetic work. With a sensitive and innovative touch, he masterfully created a timeless table that opens up the space for introspection.

ana table

What is the center table meant for? coffee mugs, cocktail snacks, décor pieces, or stretched-out legs? It's a fair discussion. Minimalist yet bold, this two-tier center table takes the risk of solving the argument all at once, splitting different priorities into two levels: One glass surface to hold the daily needs at arm's reach and one wooden stage below to display a selection of curated cherished objects.

designed by Nuno Nascimento

eugénio table

Life is not always black and white. But, sometimes, it looks good in black. Our architect friend, Nuno Nascimento, defies the square-minded and circle thinkers by combining two geometrical elements in one dynamic design.

designed by Vasco Lima Mayer

maria table

Some people believe in soulmates. As for us, we believe that one can be meant to match any other. So, we developed a table that fits well with all types of chairs.

designed by Vasco Lima Mayer

amélia table

Regardless of the size you choose, this table makes it simple and takes you back to basics. When two elementary geometrical shapes, such as a circle and a cone, come harmoniously together, volume grows with elegance and solidity rises in balance.

designed by Vasco Lima Mayer

antónia table

Smooth as silk, stable as steel, solid as oak. Antónia’s table has everything you need to stay as long as you want.

laura table

Bold and irreverent, like a heated conversation between close friends. Authentic and unique, like the bond between two lovers. Memorable and exclusive, like the moments spent with family. That is why Mesa Laura stands out in the room.

designed by Vasco Lima Mayer

madalena desk

Standing in the shape of an “A”, this small desk brings everything back to basics, making simplicity even easier. Only the essentials can be saved inside the .discreet drawer.

designed by Vasco Lima Mayer

teresa desk

Discreet but strong. This desk has the stability needed to hold any workload on its top. More than furniture, it’s a statement, showing how well elegance and functionality can get along.

carlota block

A sideboard made to show only the aesthetic part of everyday living. The TV and what needs to be seen can stay on its top, while all the rest, like messy cables and electronic devices, stay safe and hidden on the inside.

carlota sideboard

Solid materials, clean design, simple lines. Opinions are unanimous: Everyone likes this sideboard. But, if you want to make it yours, you can adapt it to your preferences. More or less wide, with doors or drawers, tidy or packed inside, it's up to you. And made for you.

designed by Vasco Lima Mayer

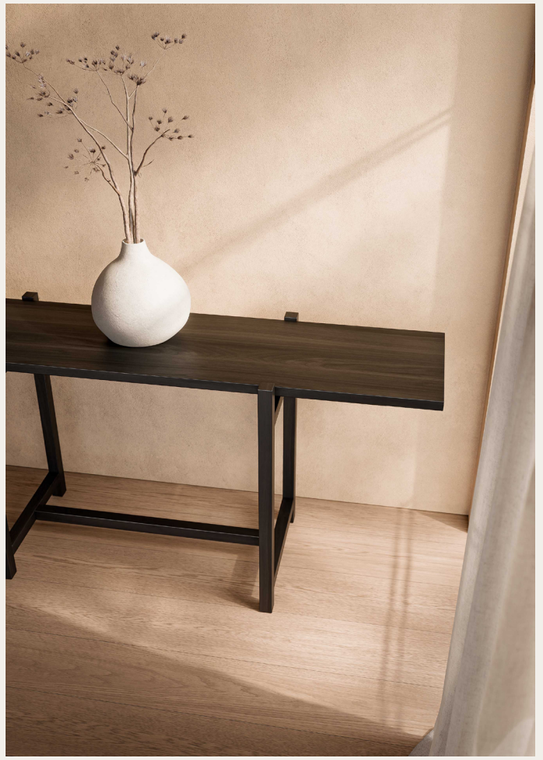
carolina sideboard

The vertical slats, in which the doors go unnoticed, make this wooden piece look more like a log than a sideboard, subtly bringing nature into your home.

designed by Vasco Lima Mayer

carmo sideboard

The Carmo sideboard is perfect for a dining room. Its design does not allow great variation in dimensions since it has drawers in the module on the right (for cutlery and other small objects) and four doors on the left for plates and dishes for example.



henrique sideboard

Henrique sideboard was designed by our architect friend Nuno Nascimento, to integrate an exclusive collection. Its strength comes not only from the black stained oak but also through the sharply defined geometric lines in its unique design.

gonçalo sideboard

It's as true as its solid wood and as clean as its shape: this minimalistic-styled sideboard adds a natural essence to the environment. Designed by the emerging architect Gonçalo Grácio, this authentic piece highlights the very best of what's being made in Portugal.

designed by Vasco Lima Mayer

marta kitchen island

To cook, to store, to chop, to eat, to gather... This kitchen island on wheels takes your needs into account by being whatever you want it to be. Placed in the middle or set aside, Ilha Marta makes room for a very essential element in your routine: Improvisation.

designed by David Taipina

olivia bed

Sleep better, live better. That’s why we made the bed of your dreams. With a straw headboard and solid wooden slatted base, Olivia’s bed is the perfect place to start and end your days, keeping you comfortable during the night and making it hard to get up in the morning.

leonor bedside table

Some things are worth to be seen, while others are meant to be kept to yourself. No matter what you bring to the room, with Leonor's bedside table you can sleep peacefully knowing your essentials are safe and sound.

designed by Vasco Lima Mayer

helena bedside table

Laying in bed and feeling the necessary things are close to you, is comforting. That's why Helena table is here for: to make it easy by holding your needs between the shelf and the bottom drawer.

designed by Vasco Lima Mayer

mariana bedside table

Linear on the outside, delicately refined on the inside. We stripped down this piece's appearance to give it a straightforward character, adding only two drawers where the joints meet the edge. But, once you open it and realize that there are three drawers where you thought there were only two, you will feel the space expanding all the possibilities you can give it.

matilde mirror

This mirror was shaped to reflect confidence in straight lines and place beauty in the center of a wooden frame. The optional LED light on the top illuminates the usual with a new perspective.

Obra Prima 03 Hanger

Designed by Estudio Obra Prima, this wall hanger embraces its function without seeking attention.
It receives a coat upon arrival and returns to the home a sense of order and calm. Simple, precise and quiet, it blends naturally into the wall, where form follows purpose with subtle grace.

Obra Prima 09 Coffe Table

Designed by Estudio Obra Prima, this coffee table emerges from three pieces that seek and complete one another. Together or apart, they follow the rhythm of the home, shifting as life unfolds. Soft stone surfaces rest lightly on solid wooden bases, finding balance in both composition and materiality.

COMFORTING
Interiors

Comfort is not just something to have. It's somewhere to live in. And your comfort zone is our pleasure.

For every project we design, our concept is simple: to transform everyday spaces into more authentic and soulful experiences, whether through the rawness of natural textures, the warmth of crafted materials, or timelessly sustainable designs. Using your needs as fuel and your perception as a guideline we turn spaces into living, breathing masterpieces.
